

Mix 973 Celebrity Scoop for Friday July 2, 2010

As we told you yesterday child services in LA visited the home of Britney Spears this week to investigate claims that she was abusive to her kids. They were at Brit's yesterday, but found nothing. Meanwhile now comes word that the guy who made the claims, Fernando Flores who claimed he was a bodyguard for her, barely worked for Britney, as a matter of fact, he was never an employee of hers, but part-time for a security company they used.

Even though it failed to get huge ratings, VH1 is giving it another chance! Jessica Simpson's The Price of Beauty "is being retooled" for its sophomore season. The focus of the show will now be on makeovers instead of traveling the world with her friends.

Bret Michaels is still dealing with side effects after his brain hemorrhage in April and warning stroke. Janna Elisa, V.P. of Michaels Entertainment says, "He still has pain from the chemical meningitis, short term memory loss and gets fatigued quicker than normal." But she adds that Bret "feels the music is a powerful healer" so he continues to hit the road! His doctor finds Bret's recovery amazing!

More trouble for the principal from "Ferris Bueller's Day Off" ...Jeffery Jones, Principal Rooney from the movie was arrested last week for failing to register as a sex offender. He was arrested back in 2003 for possession of child porn, and sentenced to 5 years probation. He could face up to 3 years in jail.

And get ready for Pee Wee...Pee-Wee Herman is returning to theaters. Producers got the idea for the new movie after seeing Paul Rubin's live performances this summer in LA as Pee-Wee. No word on the release date, but Rubin's is bringing his Pee Wee show to Broadway in October.
