

Tiger Woods is back in rehab, only this time; it's not for sex-addiction therapy. Tiger has reportedly checked into The Meadows Treatment Center in Wickenburg, AZ to undergo treatment for his addictions to the painkiller Vicodin and the sleep-aid/hallucinogenic Ambien. A source claims: "In [sex] therapy, Tiger blamed a lot of his cheating behavior on his drug addiction, saying that the drugs were responsible for impairing his judgment."

Michael Blossil . . . the 18-year-old son of MARIE OSMOND . . . committed suicide Friday night by jumping to his death from his 8th-floor apartment in Los Angeles. Blossil, who had been suffering from severe depression in recent years . . . left a note in which he claimed that he was lonely, had no friends and didn't fit in. Law enforcement sources say Michael was supposed to hang out with a friend that night. When she received his text . . . at about 9:00 P.M. . . . she went to his apartment, where his roommates let her in. Michael's note didn't actually mention suicide, but it did say that the woman was his only good friend in L.A., and talked ominously about things he would be doing for the last time.

General" Larry Platt from American Idol is cashing in on his "Pants on the Ground" phenomenon – because now he is now getting paid to play in Las Vegas. General Platt was scheduled to perform his semi-hit at JET nightclub at the Mirage Hotel Friday. Sources at the hotel told TMZ that Larry was flown from Atlanta first class ... and pampered with free food, lodging, several thousand dollars and, last but not least, a steak dinner.

Mel B. is in the running to replace Samantha Harris as co-host of Dancing with the Stars. She had a screen test Thursday and we will keep you posted.
